Pertinent Topics Discussed by H.C.

That the axis was running on both cylinders is now firmly believed. That surly, ill-natured and abominable attack by Mussolini on France was the prelude to Hitler's act against the Czechs, the object being to delay bringing France in the British-Italian accord until after Hitler had gained control over the three million Sudeten Germans. The whole affair was concerted during the latter's visit to Rome. Mussolini succeeded in proving that critics of Chamberlain were right in their contention that the British Prime Minister was negotiating with a trickster, but he probably knew it as well as they. In dealing with Rome he has no power of selection. He must deal with the head of the Italian nation, no matter what sort of character he is. So far, he has been successful in averting war and this is his main pre-occupation. It is a ticklish business and if successful from Sunday to Sunday that is the best we can hope for at present. Others may believe what they chose, but we have no doubt that were it not for Czech defiance and British intervention, Hitler would have scored another Sunday success on May 22nd.

Mr. King is justified in adding provincialism to the other isms that do so easily beset us. Provincial politicians are apt to think their public more interested in the local than the general. Kipling wrote—

God made all men all earth to love,
But, since our hearts are small,
Ordained for each one spot should prove Beloved over all.

It is natural enough, but after all, the whole is greater than any one (or two) of its parts, although one would not think so if one paid attention to the briefs presented to the Rowell Commission. Indeed, in New Brunswick, the Commission was told how much that province had done for Canada, and that politicians strong for provincial rights changed their attitude when they went to Ottawa. In that respect it only followed the lead of other provinces. It would never occur to us to reproach a federal member for acquiring a federal view instead of a provincial. He ought to acquire a broader vision in a broader field.

A business man just returned from the United States is confident that only fear is behind this recession. Businessmen there are afraid to expand. They are merely carrying on, often on a reduced scale and in an atmosphere of apprehension. Labor has got out of hand and will not obey the leaders who had made contracts with employers. They blame Mr. Roosevelt and Mrs. Perkins for failure to take a determined stand against sit-downs. They are in effect staging a sit-down of capital against a sit-down of labor. They fear too, the long result of deficit-spending, which would not be necessary if private individuals had any encouragement to invest money in business enterprises.

In The Days Of Auld Lang Syne

TEN YEARS AGO
Friday, June 8th, 1928

Lightning struck the Tuttle residence near the school and did damage amounting to two hundred dollars. No one was injured.

W. D. Campbell was awarded the contract for the construction of the municipal hospital and W. E. Butchart was awarded the plumbing and heating contract.

A fourteen hour general rain, accompanied by high winds, soaked the countryside on June 6th and was of inestimable value to the growing crops. Weather previous to the rain had been very hot with hail reported in some parts of the district. Several inches of snow fell in the foothills.

Lightning struck the hydro power line some miles out of town and shattered eight poles.

Wednesday Rain Does Much Good

Starting early Wednesday afternoon, a soaking rain fell at intervals all afternoon and night and as we go to press Thursday noon it is still raining. Up to 8 a.m. Thursday .58 of an inch was recorded on the Searle rain gauge, with every indication that a total of more than an inch of rain could be expected.

The rain, besides giving badly needed moisture to the soil, is of untold benefit in checking the ravages of cutworms and grasshoppers.

Grasshoppers have done considerable damage to some stubbled-in crops and are reported to be working into the summer fallow. Only the isolated instance of any great damage by cutworms has been reported and the method of cultivating and sowing, allowing for a ten day "starvation period," is being given credit in several cases for minimizing the damage by this pest.

Cat Not Belled Will Be Destroyed

The by-law calling for the belling of all cats in Vulcan had teeth put into it at the council meeting Monday evening when it was decided that all cats not belled will be destroyed by someone in authority. This by-law is now in force and all cat owners are warned to bell their cats or keep them confined. Too many song birds are being lost this spring through the depredations of house pets and alley toms and a quick reduction in the town's cat population is looked for.

It was decided that a tenant's agreement will be offered to all persons who had property in the tax sale. Private sales of the properties, which have to be approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs, will not be made at the end of the year when the town acquires title, provided tenants stick to the agreement. However, chattels are liable to seizure if tenants default on the agreement.

R. H. Weale was allowed one-half of a month's pay in lieu of a vacation, on motion of W. D. Allan. A motion was also passed that newsboys of the town be refunded their good conduct fee.

Through The Spotting-scope

At the rifle club meeting on Monday of this week Tom Brooks was elected president and Robert Munro was elected vice-president. Verne Parsons was made a member of the committee to take the place of Tom Brooks.

Considerable time was spent discussing local and inter-town matches and various ways of classifying the members. The members will be divided into three groups, Greenshot, Tyro and Senior. All members are requested to obtain from the secretary ten special targets which are to be shot and turned in before Tuesday, June 14th. These targets may be used on pins in the regular competition and scores will determine the member's classification.

Weather permitting, work will be started at once on a firing point, which will considerably improve the rifle range.

Crops Damaged By Grasshoppers; Difficulty Encountered Getting Enough Sawdust For Poison Bait

Grasshopper Infestation Is Heaviest in Vulcan District; Demand for Bait Exceeds Supply.

A shortage of sawdust caused curtailment of production of grasshopper poison bait at Vulcan and at other towns in the territory this week. The demand for the bait has been so heavy that from 20 to 40 cars and trucks have been waiting at times for a load and it was found necessary to give 300 lbs. to each farmer each trip in order that all would be served without too much delay. The mixing station has been working night and day in an effort to cope with the situation but the demand has by far exceeded the supply and Monday night lack of sawdust forced the station to close down until fresh supplies arrived Tuesday morning.

The demand for the poison has been heavier than was anticipated and the difficulty in getting supplies forced the station at Champion to close for two days, while the station at Blackie had to shut down on Tuesday. F. E. Bennett, reeve of the M.D. of Royal and in charge of the poison bait station at Vulcan, was interviewed by the Advocate on Tuesday morning with regard to the difficulty encountered in getting sufficient supplies. The mixing station was ready to go on May 23, said Mr. Bennett, and started making poison on May 25, with between three and four carloads of sawdust and 600 sacks of bran on hand. Two more carloads of bran were received that week but no sawdust and on May 28, Mr. Bennett ordered more sawdust. On Monday, May 30 Reeve Bennett phoned Edmonton and asked where the sawdust was that he had ordered and was told that it was on its way. On Wednesday, June 1, a carload of sawdust was received from Lethbridge. As the mixing station uses about a car and a half of sawdust a day, more was needed immediately. No sawdust was received on Thursday but on Friday one more carload was sent from Lethbridge, although Mr. Bennett had told officials on Thursday that more than one carload would be needed. On Friday night another effort to get sawdust was made and it was learned that there was one carload at Aldersyde, consigned to Nobleford, and another carload at Calgary, billed for Blackie. With the idea that these two carloads of sawdust could possibly be diverted to Vulcan, Mr. Bennett phoned the Field Crops Commissioner's office at Edmonton and told them that 40 cars and trucks were waiting for bait at Vulcan, that sawdust was running short and that grasshoppers were eating the crops up and the situation was serious. In answer to his request to have the carloads of sawdust at Aldersyde and Calgary sent to Vulcan, he was told to see F. S. Parkinson, who is directing the campaign and has headquarters here. Mr. Parkinson and Mr. Bennett phoned Lethbridge and finally had the two cars billed to Vulcan. This sawdust arrived Saturday morning and lasted until Monday night, when the station was forced to close down until three carloads arrived Tuesday about 11 o'clock. From May 28th to June 6th the station used nine carloads of sawdust and two carloads and 600 sacks of bran, turning out about 40 tons of mixed poison per day.

T.S.L. Sponsors Move For Public Library

Efforts are being made by the T.S.L. teachers' local to have a public library established in Vulcan. Such a library would include, among other works, books which are necessary to both teachers and pupils for certain courses and would be open to all persons who cared to make use of the library's facilities. The secretary of the local branch of the A.T.A. has asked that the following notice be published in the hope that enough interest will be aroused to go ahead with plans for the establishment of the library.

"Citizens of Vulcan and surrounding districts—your children and yourselves need and would enjoy a good public library. The T.S.L. teachers' local has been working towards the establishment of this but it is necessary that proof of the citizens' interest be given before going further. Please show your interest and give your encouragement to and ideas on the project by attending a meeting in the Sunday school room of the United Church on Wednesday, June 15th at 8 o'clock."

This plan for a good library to serve Vulcan and district is worthy of support and all interested persons should make an effort to be present at the meeting.

Leaders Must Be Helped

Leaders there must be to consolidate our efforts and bring unity to our thought but they must not be allowed nor expected to do all the work while we sit back and crab. Too often, after resolutions have been passed and adopted, someone mutters, "Why didn't they do something else? I could have told them a few things but I wouldn't." If either you or I had a suggestion and didn't give it, we betrayed our trust—we failed; maybe we had the one idea that would have put things right, and we withheld it. Not until each one of us has given the best of our brains and brawn to our organization, have we the slightest right to condemn others. There are too often leaders who are nothing short of glorified "straw-bosses," little tin dictators who want to run the whole show. They should be got rid of; this type stifles suggestion and finally ruins the whole idea of "we," "ourselves" and "us."

Co-operation; that's the magic word which can achieve almost every desirable state. Not the narrow, warped, little co-operation within one group, but that larger finer kind that sees things as a whole.—Country Life.

WHY DOES ANYBODY BORROW FROM A BANK?

WHY does anybody borrow money?

Here is the answer: Usually to make a profit or to use the money for his advantage.

Be the borrower a farmer, marketing organization, lumberman, miner, fisherman, rancher, manufacturer—none ever borrows from a bank and pays interest except to gain a benefit outweighing the interest charges.

Every Canadian dollar represents tangible wealth already produced, or wages paid for services rendered.

Every Canadian dollar issued can be described accurately as to purpose, as a wealth-producing, wage-paying, profit-seeking dollar.

Occasionally some borrowed dollars become temporarily deadweight debt—perhaps you suffer a loss for a season through drought or other natural calamity. But with a better season, better prices and brighter business, the loser has a chance to recover his losses.

"I borrow $1,000 from the bank, paying interest because the bank is rendering me a service," one man instances. He goes on thus:

"Why do I borrow the $1,000? To use in a business deal and make a profit."

"My deal concluded successfully, I repay the bank and have a profit of say $100, which I put to my credit in the bank."

"The bank has back its $1,000 and interest, and I have $100 I didn't have before."

"Multiply that borrowing of mine, my use of the money, my repayment and my profit, by many borrowers, day after day, and you see what is happening as a continuous revolving process throughout the year in the business world."

A farmer borrows for seed, cultivation or harvesting; a fisherman borrows for bait, boat or wages; a manufacturer borrows against raw materials being fabricated, to pay wages to finish and market his goods—but none of these borrows except in the hope of profit to himself, in supplying the needs of others.

Banking is not mysterious. A farmer's co-operative marketing organization uses bank credit so that the farmer may get cash for his crop at the elevator without waiting for it to reach Liverpool.

A merchant borrows from the bank and is enabled to pay his bills early, take advantage of discounts, and pass part of his saving on to his customers.

A small farmer with 20 hogs borrowed $50 for feed, paid $1.75 interest and was enabled to sell his hogs for $100 more than he would have got on an earlier market. His net profit was $48.75. That is an authentic case. Here is another:

A hog-raiser on a large scale paid $100 interest on a loan for feed. He writes us that he made a net profit of nearly $2,000.

These are instances of the kind of services bank credit, exchanged for individual credit, performs as an everyday routine, in Canada. Any community can supply scores of similar examples.

What is money? Coinage, Bank of Canada notes, bank notes, deposits.

Chartered banks now issue their notes up to a legal limit of 85 per cent of their paid-up capital. Yearly this is being reduced and the right of note-issue as steadily vested in the Bank of Canada.

A chartered bank's notes are the first charge on its assets. In case of trouble they must be paid off before a single cent can be paid on deposits or on any other debts owed by the bank. To make doubly sure that notes will be redeemed, each bank pays into a fund held by the Minister of Finance, an amount of cash equal to five per cent of the average of its bank notes outstanding. This is called the "Bank Circulation Redemption Fund." The total of this fund is available for the purpose of redeeming the outstanding notes of any bank.

Notes of the Bank of Canada are money—legal tender—cash—that Bank's notes and deposits are backed (April 30, 1938) by 53.37 per cent of gold and silver bullion and foreign exchange.

Notes of the chartered banks, too, are money—their promises to pay; every dollar backed by more than twenty dollars of assets. They are redeemable, on demand, in cash.

Your deposit in a chartered bank also is money—you can buy things with it. It arose from your labour, production and thrift. It is redeemable in cash. It is the measure of your real wealth. You may make payments by cheque upon it. When your cheque goes through the Clearing House system, it must be met by the bank on which it is drawn. Any balances as between banks have to be settled in cash daily.

Your Canadian dollars are useful factors in a system that produces wealth for all of Canada.

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

CHARLES CLARK

Owner-Publisher

THE GUARDIANS OF THE GATE

Lt. Col. J. H. Woods of the Calgary Herald, recently addressed the Chamber of Commerce of United States on the influence of the English-speaking world in assuring world stability. In his concluding words he referred to the North-American continent as "the Guardians of the Gate" through which the forces of Europe and Asia must pass if they are to merge. "It is for us to see," he said that what passes is good and not evil. With the sturdy vigor of our brothers of the British Dominions, with the strength of our Mother Country, and with the spirit of the country that created the United States of America in the name of freedom, we surely can establish throughout the world a stability that will restore the tremendous balance of today and bring to others the blessings which we ourselves possess.

Earlier in his address he said: "Today we find on either hand of us, humanity regimented into various moulds, which suit the particular 'isms' of those who promote them. But there is no stability for the world outside of freedom. Freedom of religion, of thought of commerce, and of human intercourse—these are first necessities of a restored stability. Behind all that we may plan for the world there remains the fact that the English-speaking nations must preserve for themselves and impress upon the world, these principles of right and freedom which form the keynote of our own social and political structure. A high duty rests upon United States and the British Empire to come together in this great cause."

"Above all this duty lies on this continent. It lies with United States and Canada more than any other two peoples. Under different governments though with similar political systems, we control an area which in the future will be the centre of the world. We have an interchange of commerce such as no other two countries in the world possess. We have mutual investments in capital, intimately interwoven in the natural development and industrial life of our communities."

"We have a human exchange which penetrates each of us with the personalities of the other. There is an inevitable closeness between us. We are the highway of the world—particularly Canada, through which is the shortest route from Russia to Australia, London to Tokyo."

"Remember that we stand in a sort of 'no man's land' between great warring forces—the forces which would impose upon Europe the autocracy of trained dictatorship, or spread through the world the principles of Soviet Russia and the forces that, across the Pacific are reaching out to hundreds of millions of humble people to make of them a unified people, that will take possession spiritually and materially of a great continent. Whereas we at one time had an unquestioned supremacy, today we haven't it, and tomorrow we may not have it. Our place in the world as English-speaking people will be threatened more and more as years pass by."

REPUDIATION NOT POPULAR

Contrary to the widespread impression that Albertans individually are seeking repudiation of just debts and are in sympathy with government legislation, it is doubtful if any responsible citizen wants to have his just debts cancelled by legislation. What he has borrowed in times past is a matter between creditor and debtor, with each case having distinctive angles, but in most instances meriting compromise on the part of both.

A representative member of the Social Credit party in this district is quite outspoken in his condemnation of recent legislation by which all debts contracted prior to 1936 would be cancelled if there were no renewal of agreement before 1940. He said: "My own case is perhaps a fair example of injustices that might rise out of that legislation. I bought my farm in 1928, and still owe $5000 on it. The holder of the mortgage is a man well past working age, dependent to quite an extent on that $5000 that I promised to pay him. But he has been very fair in not pressing me for any payment of principal and has voluntarily brought down his interest rate. Our dealings have been satisfactory to me at any rate. I do think that with present values there should be something cut from that $5000. I would think it right if $1000 or $1500 reduction would be made on my debt, because land values have dropped to that extent in ten years, and recent prices have not justified the original price paid. I believe my creditor would accept this, if he felt sure that I regarded the debt as one that I intended to pay. That is the type of legislation that would bring peace of mind to most people. It does not sit well on my conscience to think that by a little hedging under the shelter of this recent law, I can snap my fingers at my creditor and say I owe him nothing. It might not be so hard to get away with it, because he lives many miles away. However, I know that I owe him a debt, and that part of my farm is rightly his until it is paid for. If I played that kind of trick on my creditor, I would go through life watching for other people to play the same kind of trick on me. I would not trust anyone, and that is not a happy way to live.

Besides under the new Mortgage Tax, the holder of my mortgage will have to pay $100 which is about one third of what I pay him in interest. He is doubly hit. Not only is he liable to lose his whole principal, but he has to pay 2 per cent tax on it.

"This is not the type of legislation I expected when I voted for the present government. I hoped for something that would make some decisive adjustment which would stand up in courts of law, and be fair both to the creditor and the man who is trying to pay debts. All we have had is legislation that is disallowed not only by courts but by the individual conscience."

FOLLY OF FASCISM

Fascism is not a national menace in Canada. To so describe it is to dignify it beyond any deserving. It is merely a foul falsehood (like Communism or any other form of despotism)—but it is a falsehood that may blight the thinking of a multitude of eager, ardent young Canadians, until their minds become warped by folly.

Canada is a free country. Every Canadian has the right, and duty to advocate those causes that commend themselves to him. He has even the right to make a fool of himself, if he so pleases. That is one of the inalienable rights of democracy, and it is a small price to pay for freedom.

In the present search for solutions for pressing the national problems, a few noisy minorities are taking full advantage of these rights, and are exhibiting themselves in childish folly by advocating to a free people a form of government that is born in hate and fostered by force.

One of these groups which seeks to bewilder the minds of Canadian youth is called "The Canadian Nationalist Party." The very title is a misnomer, for the party so-called is a Fascist front that is neither Canadian nor Nationalist nor a party. It is an attempt to organize hate, and to disguise it thinly as patriotism and Christianity.

Their prospectus urges that Canadians who live in amity and tolerance with their fellow Canadians of all creeds and complexions must choose between:

- Revolution or Order
- Left or Right
- Internationalism or Nationalism
- Jew Control or National Control

No more preposterous mis-statement could be made. For these alternatives simply do not exist among Canadians whose faith is founded on the Fatherhood of God, and the Brotherhood of Man and on nothing else.

In Canada there is no left (Communism) nor right (Fascism) except as it exists in the disordered minds of a few who have failed to constructively exercise their rights as citizens, or who hope for some personal gain through serving factions whose importance is in reverse ratio to the noise they make. An Internationalism which fosters class wars and a Nationalism which forms race hatreds can find no Canadian soil on which to flourish.—Don't Be A Fascist Fool!—Canadian Magazine.

INACTION

The general public is unanimously agreed that there should be no more commissions. No more commissions. The amount that has been paid out in the last ten years to this gentry class making up the boards, would have gone far to correct abuses of the injured industries. It is incredible that the government, with all the information presented before the House, does not know exactly what is the matter, and how it can be corrected. There is apparently no obligation laid upon any commission to do more than investigate. There is apparently no obligation on the part of governments to do more than consider voluminous reports.

Within the sphere of this part of the West, the federal government has been guilty of a masterly inactivity. It is inactive in proper encouragement to the oils industry. It has been inactive in following recommendations of the livestock industry or the wheat farmers. It has been too hesitant in exercising its proper authority in the fanatical legislation of the provincial government. Whether it has shown any more spirit and decisiveness in attacking problems of any other regions is not known. But by this very sluggishness it is contributing to the fuel of all the disrupting influences which are growing. The most damning charge against the federal government is lack of action in matters which are crying for action.

When Premier Aberhart said last Sunday that no one but the Almighty could destroy grasshoppers and cutworms; he was passing the buck. The Almighty expects co-operation, and a little personal effort. Hearing the premier blandly urging confidence and faith to kill hoppers, one might suggest that confidence would be a lot stronger if the government ensured a steady supply of sawdust. The premier and his henchmen should be planted on a hopper-ridden farm with no bait available. But they are sitting snugly in Saskatchewan.

Farmers Biggest Milk Consumers

Survey Indicates Family Income of Urban Centres Reflected in Milk Purchases

A survey of milk consumption in Alberta, Ontario and Quebec indicates that an increase in family income in cities is reflected always in per capita milk consumption. Low consumption is evidence of restricted income almost invariably. Farm groups have largest per capita consumption of about one pint a day. Businessmen, salesmen and clerical workers average about three-quarters pint a day. Skilled workers run about two-thirds of a pint daily per person. Unskilled laborers about half pint daily per person. Larger families have a smaller per capita consumption and adults use less than children. The amount of cream is much lower for low income families than those of high incomes. Those on relief have practically no cream, but

A New Magazine The Can. Cattleman

A new periodical "Canadian Cattleman" appears this month as the official organ of the Western Canada cattle industry. The inaugural issue is fittingly on hand for the annual meeting of the Western Stock Growers' Association. The front cover is appropriately a range scene of the foothills, and is the work of Miss Maxine Macleay.

The first "souvenir" issue is dedicated alike to the hardy pioneers and the men and women of today who are striving to improve herds and production methods.

The policy of the magazine is to bring together the assembled opinion and experiences of the commercial cattle industry, and to offer a vehicle for those with income of $2000 or over use about half pint per person weekly. More cream is consumed in the farm areas, the expression of views and development of policies. Contributors to the first issue include Senator Riley Frank Ward, Jack Byers, Kenneth Coppock, H. S. Arkell, Hon. D. B. Mulen, Prof. Sackville and others.

The magazine will be published quarterly, with Kenneth Coppock as editor and manager.

The Elevator Overages Act by which the government takes all proceeds from sale of overages at elevators for the benefit of agriculture becomes effective May 16.

The entire Cabinet and many private members, numbering 22, absent themselves from Alberta to take the gospel to Saskatchewan. An amusing episode at Regina was the appearance of five men from the Calgary singles jobless, demanding that Mrs. Gostick and A. V. Bourcier, who are drawing extra pay as a Relief Inquiry Board return home and get down to business. Mrs. Gostick thought the relief problem was not pressing, but the delegation said they would be six feet under ground, under the Alberta relief

Charging that the federal parks dept. is discriminating against the poorer class of tourists, Banff has sent a strong protest to the Ottawa department. New regulations refuse permits to cheaper cabins, and has ordered destruction of picnickers' pavilion and raise in swimming pool fees.

Interest is centring on Anticosti Island at the mouth of the St. Lawrence river. Hon. R. B. Bennett stated that German interests were attempting to gain control of this important strategic point which is a key to Canada. The island no longer belongs to Canada, but there seems obscurity in the actual ownership. A paper firm, with shareholders all over the world, once owned it but went bankrupt and owes millions to one bank.

the country. You have examined into everybody's affairs. You have criticized every profession and vexed every trade. No one is certain of his property and no one knows what duties he may have to perform tomorrow."

Who is this talking, and to whom is he addressing himself? Only two guesses, mind you. No, you are wrong in both. It is Disraeli talking to Gladstone in 1872.

Canada attitude toward sanctions, as revealed by Mr. King, is that they have ceased to apply, and will not be resorted to again. Two years ago, our representative at the League, Dr. Riddell, was recalled because he moved (or seconded) the sanctions resolution. The government's attitude was that, although supporting the resolution, it did not wish to be understood as moving or seconding it. It was a fine point not generally understood by people who move or second resolutions. We supported sanctions then against Italy, but some influence was brought to bear that made us weaken. It was the first break for Mussolini in his Ethiopian campaign, and no one at Ottawa has asked why Canada took such a position.

The estimates this year show as usual appropriations for sums, large and small, to be spent in dredging harbors and rivers, and maintaining or improving harbors in places where commercial navigation is a thing of the past; except perhaps for fishing smacks. Any member can name such places in other ridings, but will not admit it applies to his own. The people have not arrived at a point where they will resent wasteful extravagance in their own districts. They long ago arrived at a point where they criticized wasteful extravagance elsewhere.

The forty million dollars appropriation to bring about employment is a pale imitation of Rooseveltian pump-priming, but if an election comes on it may have political value. So far as it is intended to induce slum clearance and the building of new houses, it is at least an attempt to stimulate trades that have languished because of high building costs and mounting municipal taxes. Until private individuals undertake to invest their money in homes, outside stimulation can have only a sporadic effect. In cities, good buildings are being wrecked to avoid taxes and the lots are being used for parking purposes.

It is risky to comment on the quickly changing events that are taking place in Europe and base any predictions on them, but at this time of writing it looks as if firmness on the part of Czecho-Slovakia had served the cause of peace better than timidity. Military advisers had advised Germany that the army was not yet in condition to chance a general war. While the forces that arrived in Vienna made a brave show, Mr. Gedy, a New York Times representative there reported that the mobilization in Germany was anything but a success. Roads leading into Austria were thrown into confusion by bogged tanks and a clutter of its advertised "mobile" forces. We feel inclined to believe this story because, shortly after, important changes were made in the high command. If Austria had been prepared to resist it could have flung those legions back upon their disorganized rear. The German army of today is formidable enough but it does not compare with that steel-grey host that goose-stepped through Belgium in August 1914. Poor Austria, however, could put up no defence, for it was honeycombed with Nazis who are now, when too late, rebelling against the oppression of their new masters.

It is refreshing for Saskatchewan people to have Mr. Aberhart tell them

On June 9, a picnic is being held at Caerleon ranch, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Crawford Frost. It is in the nature of a field day, and prize stock will be shown, with stock judging, and a dance in the evening.

Lower prices for gas and distillate have resulted to Saskatchewan and Manitoba through Turner Valley oil development.

A good many banks are holding old mortgages on which they have collected nothing for years, and which they have held on to only in hopes that the debtor may win a sweepstake ticket or strike oil. They are going to have to pay 2 per cent. on the principal of all these worthless bits of paper. Why not send a few of these mortgages up to the government to cover 2 per cent. payment on all their mortgages. The government is taking the position that every mortgage in this country is worth justifying a 2 per cent. tax. Then let them hold a few mortgages.

Premier Aberhart, Dec. 31, 1935: "I believe a province an ideal testing ground for Social Credit, as a Dominion application at once would be on too large a scale. The first job is to balance the budget. I am jealous of Alberta's credit. I don't want any person to feel he cannot put money into Alberta without being assured he will get it out. The Ottawa Conference gave me a lot of hope. I expect that it will lead to the refunding of our debt and the lifting of the relief burden off our backs."

Bank of Canada To Be Publicly Owned

Government Will Take Over Complete Ownership

After three years of life the Bank of Canada is to become a wholly publicly owned institution.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced Friday the government had decided to acquire complete ownership of the bank and to take over the 100,000 shares now in the hands of the public. Legislation to this end will be introduced before the end of the present session.

This will be the third time the national central bank has been subject of legislation since it was established in 1935.

Necessarily all the directors, if the bank is to have a board of directors, will be government appointees.

The present shareholders will be compensated for their stock on the basis of the average price at which the shares have sold on the market in 1938. Recently it has been quoted at $59.

The government already owns more than 50 percent of the capital stock issued in the form of new capital by legislation in 1936.

When the Bank of Canada was established as Canada's central bank in 1935 with all the capital stock privately owned, it was sold by subscription at the par value of $50 per share and since then has sold on the market at prices slightly higher.

Friday 59 was bid for the stock without any sales.

Peace River district is reversing things this spring and has been very dry, needing heavy rains.

Pro-Rationing To Hit Development

W. S. Herron, a director of Royalite, is urging Hon. R. B. Bennett to press for the necessity of gaining wider markets for Turner Valley oil. Discussing the latest pro-ration which he said was necessary because available markets could not consume more than 11,000 barrels per day, he said:

"It now makes it an uneconomic undertaking to drill wells at the high costs which prevail here, when operators are obliged to keep the production shut in to this extent. This pro-ration is sure to shut out capital from coming in for further development."

"Even the established companies apart perhaps from the Royalite Oil Company, cannot carry on development on this basis."

Canadian oil producers should receive a great part of the Canadian market. The greater part of that market is in Eastern Canada, and in all fairness western oils should be going to that Eastern Canada market, Mr. Herron said.

"The government should at least arrange with the railway companies to give low freight rates on oil shipments to the east, and, if necessary, bonus the railways companies to some degree," he said. "If wheat can be shipped at low freight rates, when we grow four hundred million bushels per year more than the country can consume, surely it is only fair to ask that we should have an equitable proportion of our home market for our oil production."

History Repeats

Seven years ago Mr. Herron wrote Mr. Bennett, then Prime Minister of Canada, on a similar situation in Turner Valley.

Oil Prices Paid In Montana Affect Turner Valley

The price paid the oil producer in Turner Valley depends upon what happens in the State of Montana, according to evidence presented on behalf of the Alberta Government at a recent sitting of the Tariff Board.

F. G. Cottle, chief auditor of the Alberta Board of Public Utilities Commissioners, testified that he had recently visited Montana to study the situation in the oil fields there. Because Montana had lost its Canadian Prairie oil market to Turner Valley, Mr. Cottle said, many of the producers have little or no market at the moment. Those who have a market will not agree to share it with their less fortunate neighbors. Furthermore, production is exceeding requirement and consequently prices are unstabilized without prospect of early improvement. The distress production is estimated by Mr. Cottle at 97,000 barrels a month.

"If prevailing prices in Montana fall much lower," Mr. Cottle said, "a further drop in prices in Turner Valley can be expected to meet competition at Saskatchewan and Manitoba refinery points."

The provincial government has been urged to hurry up the handling of Alberta's share of the $30,000,000 to be loaned to the municipalities by the federal government.

Only Divine Power Can Kill Hoppers

But Mixing Stations Had Better Continue Grinding Out the Bait

One of the theological profundities of Premier Aberhart last Sunday was an explanation of how grasshoppers come. They come because men are too impatient and can't wait answer to prayer. This scientific light certainly makes the eggs in the soil look very foolish, and his suggested method for getting rid of hoppers and cutworms, pointedly ignores all the human effort involved in bait mixing and bait spreading.

He said: "There is every prospect of a good crop but already the grasshoppers and cut worms have made their appearance. The destructive agencies are already at work."

"We have already expressed thanks for the bountiful rain and we must now ask God for protection for the crops. I wonder if some of us were so impatient that we could not wait for the answer to our prayers that we consequently have the cutworm and grasshopper. Let us ask God to protect the crops from cutworm, grasshopper, wind, hail and the other thing which destroy the crops. God expects faith and confidence. No one can kill the grasshoppers but God and no one can stop the cutworms but the Almighty."
